The service account has been granted read-only permission on the project and a service account email address. Can I somehow grant this service account additional permissions after the fact, given that Google doesn't seem to have an API for doing this? Basically, is there a way to get some account to automatically give the other account admin-level access? I'm being asked to do this for an app I can't change, and it's been in development for a few months already. A: This question actually seems to have been answered a bit before you. The dm_service_address type (see the create_service_account_role documentation) is created automatically by google whenever you grant a service account an explicit scope. Q: Schema.org error with Facebook Open Graph I am currently using the Open Graph protocol and I am getting an error with Facebook. This is the error I am getting: However, when I go to Facebook and look at the error from the
