An action RPG game that takes place in the Lands Between. The Lands Between is a world between the Land of Obliteration and the Land of Myth, and is a place with a vast world and countless mysteries. The world is affected by the battle between good and evil and the struggle for supremacy. The battle between good and evil is graphically represented by the conflict between the evil Black Mist and the good Kingdom of Elden. Good and evil are summoned from their slumber by the "Elden Ring," a special item that is the key to the "Super Contest." In the "Super Contest," players fight each other, and the "Elden Ring" determines whether the victory is won by the side of good or of evil. If you are on the side of good, the fate of the world will be decided. Players wishing to experience the action RPG in a more relaxed atmosphere can select the "Free Play" mode. In this mode, an open world is displayed over the course of five days, and the player will experience the world of the super contest only by logging in from time to time. ► BARD'S ENTRY The Beards are a gang of war veterans that occupy the upper-class society of the Lands Between. They were once much feared for their military prowess, but due to a great fall in status as a result of the rise of the Black Mist, they have lost their reputation and fear. However, the Beards are not regular human beings - they have interwoven beards and moustaches. A foreign wizard that is not from the Land of Myth or the Land of Obliteration has suddenly appeared. While investigating the place where the wizard was slain, the player will discover a rare object, "The Elden Ring," which has been passed down for generations. At the same time, the player finds out that a mysterious force is pursuing him, and soon the player will become the center of attention. In order to escape these people, the player must use the power of the Elden Ring and leave the world of the "Super Contest" behind in the "Free Play" mode, while searching for the legendary and enormous item "The Elden Ring." ► PIZZA'S ENTRY In the pizza shop, you can ask that on

MY LOVE of AD&D hasn't really diminished with the new releases that came out over the past 15 years--I quite enjoy the adventure and role-playing elements-- but when I go to a table and people are moving into other campaigns set in the same world, with the same characters or else under the influence of the same gaming mechanic, I always wonder if they aren't being a bit hypocritical by making claims that the system is superior to other games. Personally, I'm a huge fan of Paizo and they haven't released a rule-set that I don't love, but I'm quite certain that I don't love it as much as some of the other games that I've played over the years. If you think about it, the major mechanics are the dice, the attribute bonus system, and the class system. As much of a fan as I am of Paizo's games, I always feel like the system which offers the most freedom is the one that I enjoy the most. Imagine how different Pathfinder might be if the rules for character creation, skill progression, and spell design weren't tied up in role-playing simulation and instead simply allowed me to use an 'any means any way' sort of approach. The games of the past--especially the early editions
