Description Becker, the Pennsylvania-based company that produces outdoor power equipment and snowmobiles and has over 4,000 employees worldwide, is best known for its snowmobiles. The skiing and snowboarding world has been reeling in the aftermath of a tragic accident when a 19-year-old skier was killed while skiing in Switzerland. The accident occurred at around 4.30pm yesterday when the man fell 300 metres down into the Val Ferret. Paramedics and rescue workers had to use a helicopter and rope to retrieve the skier. The skier was later found dead at the bottom of the mountain. His family have requested that the man be identified only as 'Daniel' but say that he was not an inexperienced skier. The incident happened at the ski resort of Les Diablerets, in the Val Ferret, near the border with Italy and close to the French-Italian border. The skier was a year 12 student at Haut de la Val Ferret High School in the neighbouring country of France. The school's principal, Jean-Luc Dessart, said the young man had 'enormous potential' and that the school would do everything to assist in the investigation. Val Ferret is one of Europe's largest ski areas with almost 60,000 visitors every year, according to local media.

There are 1,600 metres of pistes for skiers and snowboarders. Among them are the Coupe Grand. The slope is the largest in Europe with a length of 687 metres and a vertical drop of 413 metres. The resort last suffered a tragic accident in 2004 when an 11-year-old-boy was killed when he fell 150 metres from a chair lift. His 32-year-old brother survived with minor injuries. The teenage girl who died in the accident was a class mate at the high school where Daniel was studying. 6d1f23a050
