Histological and radioimmunological analyses of gastric antrum mucosa from mutant mice revealed gastritis associated with premature enterocyte turnover, increased stromal cell number and mucous production. Dose-response studies, performed for two of the three indicators of mucosal cell turnover, showed that, in AAT-deficient mice, the "faster" dynamics is related to AAT deficiency, whereas the "slower" dynamics, represented by a decreased labelling index and an increased S-phase fraction, is related to the development of gastric mucosal lesions. The influence of AAT deficiency on cell turnover is different from that reported in other animal models of gastric mucosal lesion. These findings provide the first data on the role of AAT on cell turnover in a pathological condition.New Delhi: The Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) has successfully carried out the first demonstration of its ground-based space communication system, TEML, following the successful completion of its mission on April 18. "The TEML mission success is the first of its kind in the world. ISRO has launched a scientific communication satellite into orbit. As the first step, ISRO is developing the ground-based TEML system for exclusive use by academia, scientists and students," ISRO Chairman K. Radhakrishnan had said. The TEML system will be the first user-specific communication satellite architecture for exclusive use by academia, students and science

Sparky @ 12/9/2017, 9:52 am Or that the multilayered and politically-charged pastimes of Keith Ellison and Tama Becker are responsible for it. This, as will be seen below, is an entirely different issue. Anyone can post comments of course, but the only people who are allowed to post comments are those who have "liked" the page. That is why the sharing and reposting of images has been going on with such uproar. But do those who share and repost realize the implications? Since Facebook itself does not do so, they are legally responsible for anything they post on Facebook. Therefore, they have no moral or ethical problem in posting images of the most atrocious nature. That means they are responsible for any of the comments that follow. That is why so many of them look like they are a bunch of sickos having a good time of it.
